I know it's a big deal for me. I'm a naturally stressed-out person and I'm trying more and more to keep my stress-level low. Lately it's been pretty high, and while I know it'll pass, I'm really trying to spend more time relaxing. It's not as easy as you might think in this first installment of a two-part series on stress reduction I'll discuss some ways you can set yourself up to be less stressed. Find the right jobHaving a job you love and one that can support a good work/life balance is a great way to start down the road to a less stressful life. When it comes to work/life balance, some jobs are better than others. Over at Jugglezine they... Read moreA job where you can simply work less is always good too. If nothing else you need to be able to take a break every once in awhile. Get to work! I know! I just told you to take a break from work. Well, working hard has its benefits too. Think about it. How often do you get to work — really work? We spend so much of our work days doing everything but working. Dealing with office politics, digging through e-mail and RSS, having meetings and all the rest. For me anyway once of the best ways to keep the stress level low is to get things done and get head down and do some work. I feel my best when I'm writing, or designing or coding. Well, either when I'm doing that or just after I've finished a productive four hour stint (I work in three or four hour blocks usually). It's also got the added benefits of keeping the to-do list manageable. Set boundariesYou've got to know when to say no and when to quit. It seems like every day someone is asking for something new, but you've got to realize that for every new job, new task, new bit of information you've decided to bring on you've got to either take away from something else or find more energy somewhere inside to deal with it. Good work isn't all about getting things done and doing lots of work, it's about doing it right also. I'm not a perfectionist (perfect is the enemy of the good), but I do expect quite a bit out of myself and those around me. It's sometimes awfully easy to see when someone has too much on their plate as their work suffers and they're always stressed out. Seeing that in yourself is the trick. Give yourself a long inward look and ask yourself if you might need to reduce your workload. Also, it's a good idea to do this before you agree to take something new on. Stay fit. Exercise.A healthy lifestyle can do a whole lot toward relieving stress. I know I feel my best and my least stressed after a very draining soccer or kickball game. Join a club, go out for a run or make time on your Sunday afternoon to kick a ball around with friends. It can help in so many ways. It's important to find activities that work for you. I'm not sure competitive sports is for everyone, for example. The idea is to do something that gets you active, even if it's just going for a walk every day at lunch. Get clean and organizedOne of the reasons people are so interested in David Allen's Getting Things Done and other, similar productivity programs is their promise to keep you less stressed. One of the ways these systems help you do that is by helping you keep organized. A tidy desk, clean home and organized computer can do wonders for keeping your mind of things that cause stress, by Keith RobinsonRead moreTake time off from work. Make sure you're using your vacation days and getting away from the office and its stress on a regular basis. Don't work through the weekend. In fact, you might try and take Fridays off! Lifehacker pal and all-around productive guy Ryan Carson has a great idea for being more productive. Read moreAs always if anyone reading this has any more tips they'd like to add, that'd be very welcome in the comments or at tips at lifehacker.com. Next up: de-stressing through relaxation. D. Perched on cliffs overlooking the Pacific Ocean, Lima is one of South America's most animated and culturally colorful cities. Beach meets business center in this capital coastal city. Skyscrapers compete for the best views of thrill-seekers paragliding from the Miraflores cliffs and surfing world class breaks. The pulsing restaurant and bar scenes have evolved way beyond ceviche and Pisco Sour—though you shouldn't skip either. Bohemian neighborhoods attract modern artists and hold Inca ruins. Lima is it. Peru Standard Time Thanks to the Pacific Ocean coast location below the equator, there are only two distinct seasons in Lima: winter and summer. The weather isn't dramatic and rain is rare, but days are usually cloudy and cool. Expect the warmest temperatures and biggest crowds between December and April. For events, February hosts both Carnival (don't miss Lima's Water Wars) and National Pisco Sour Day on the first Saturday of the same month. National Ceviche Day is usually at the end of June. Currency: Peruvian Sol Language: Spanish, Quechua, AymaraI don't speak Spanish: No hablo español/castellano. I'm lost. Estoy perdido. I would like... - Me gustaria... Calling Code: +51 | Capital City: Lima Trains: The Lima Metro has one line with 26 stations, and generally serves commuters who live in the suburbs over tourists. The train stops running at 11 p.m. and it doesn't connect to the airport. Buses: Lima offers two types of buses. The larger Metropolitanano buses are slightly more expensive—but refined. Combis are cheaper van-size buses that barely slow down to drop passengers off wherever they want on the route. Taxis: Both car and moto taxis are available. Be sure the driver starts the meter or states the price when you get in to avoid haggling over fares. Car service: Uber and Cabify are available and affordable in Lima, but you will need internet service to operate the apps. Courtesy of Belmond Address: Av. Malecón de la Reserva 1035, Miraflores, Lima PeruPhone: +51 1 610 4000Website If you're looking for a luxury hotel stay in the heart of Miraflores' action, live the high life at Miraflores Park, a Belmond Hotel. Two of three restaurants and bars are private for hotel guests. Zest Spa uses products sourced from the Peruvian Amazon. All the rooms are suites, and the Presidential category offers private plunge pools with epic ocean views. Address: Santa Maria 190, Miraflores, Lima PeruPhone: +51 1 700 5105Website Atemporal offers an intimate city escape with just nine hotel rooms in a revamped Tudor-style 1940s mansion. Freebies include a hotel car and nightly cocktail hour. Sophisticated design and thoughtful details abound in the veranda, garden, and inside the guest rooms. Address: Saenz Peña 204, Barranco, Lima PeruPhone: +51 1 206 0800Website Built in 1914 as the summer getaway of a former Peruvian president, this Belle Epoque mansion is now a Relais & Chateaux hotel. Highlights include a rooftop plunge pool, signature restaurant, and Atelier category rooms with 16-foot ceilings and Italian marble bathrooms. Don't miss afternoon tea in the Library, decorated with pre-Columbian artwork. Address: Los Eucaliptos 590, San Isidro Lima, PeruPhone: +51 1 611 9000Website The Country Club was originally built in 1927 and has hosted former Presidents and actor John Wayne (he met his Peruvian wife here.) A remodel in 2017 brought contemporary touches to the colonial-style building, which features 83 rooms decorated with Peruvian art donated from a local museum, gilt mirrors, and king-size beds. The 18-hole golf course is the finishing luxurious touch. Address: Av. Javier Prado Este 1212, Corpaco-SAN Isidro, Lima PeruPhone: +51 1 224 8189Website Chifa is a term to describe Cantonese Chinese cuisine fused with traditional Peruvian ingredients and techniques. The food style is wildly popular in Lima, maybe nowhere more so than at Chifa Titi. It's difficult to choose from the sprawling menu, but portions are meant to be shared. Reservations recommended. Address: Av. Camino Real 101San Isidro, Lima PeruPhone: +51 1 440 5200Website Since Malabar opened in 2004, chef Pedro Miguel Schiaffino has celebrated Peru's biodiversity in his eclectic menus. Paz Soldan 290, San Isidro, Lima PeruPhone: +51 1 442 2775Website If you think of ceviche when you think of Peru, you partially have the chefs who started and still run Astrid y Gaston to thank. Inventive menus might feature anything from local squash ceviche to flavorful fish stew. To finish the meal, guests receive a map pointing to sourced ingredients across Peru. Reservations recommended. Address: Av. Pedro de Osma 301, Barranco 15063, PeruPhone: +51 1 2428515Website Helmed by husband and wife duo, Virgilio Martínez and Pia Leon, Central is an exploration of Peru as much as it is a dining destination. The restaurant is somewhat of a workshop for Martínez, where he experiments with different indigenous Peruvian ingredients that he sources directly from farmers across the country. Central has regularly been rated one of the best restaurants in South America by the World's 50 Best. Address: Hipólito Unanue 203, Lima 18, PeruPhone: +51 1 221 1322Website The beauty of a Mercado meal is that straightforward dishes allow individual ingredients and flavors to really shine. The menu is divided into salty and sweet, with small portions designed for multiple orders per person. The catch? It's only open for lunch. Reservations accepted. Covered outdoor seating available. Address: Av. La Mar 770, Lima 18, PeruPhone: +51 1 421 3365Website Lima is a coastal city with access to seriously fresh seafood. There's no better place in the City of Kings to sample the local catch than the Miraflores location of La Mar Cebichería. Don't miss the raw bar, made with a rotating selection of ceviche, nigiri, and maki. Reservations recommended. Greg Vaughn/Getty Images Address: Av. Simon Bolívar 1515, Pueblo Libre 21, Lima PeruPhone: +51 1 461 1312Website Museo Larco house's Peru's most important collection of Pre-Columbian artifacts, including gold and jewelry from ancient Peru and a room of pottery inspired by well...sex. Address: Avenida Pardo y Alaga 662, San Isidro, LimaPhone: +51 1 986 787 755Website If you only get to one bar in Lima, make it Carnival Bar. Extremely creative cocktails combine art and something akin to magic. Unexpected garnishes might include marshmallows with tonka beans—yep the same delicious bean that could be lethal in large doses. Presentations were made to be shown off on Instagram. Sebastian Castaneda/Anadolu Agency/Getty Images Address: Puerta 5, Parque de la Reserva, Av. Petit Thouars, Cercado de Lima 15046, Lima PeruPhone: +51 1 424 0827When it was originally constructed, the Magic Water Circuit made the "Guinness Book of World Records" as the world's largest water fountain complex in a public park. It's an unexpected spectacle, and the choreographed light show is most fun at night. Carlos Garcia Grantho/Getty Images Address: Jiron Lampa, Cercado de Lima 15001, Lima PeruPhone: +51 1 426 7377Website Built in 1535, the Convent of San Francisco is a must-see for its beautiful Baroque-style architecture and impressive library with 17th century artistic works by European painters. Located under the convent, is an historic cemetery whose underground tunnel networks and vaults buried more than 25,000 souls. This is history at its spookiest. Address: MirafloresThe best way to admire and experience Lima's beautiful scenery is a six-mile stroll or bike ride along El Malecon. The paved cliffside path runs in three connected segments along the Pacific-facing edge of stunning Miraflores. Parks, sculptures, cafes, restaurants (and a lighthouse) are plentiful if you need a break from looking out over the cliffs. If you want to paraglide, this is your chance. Bradford/Getty Images Address: Malecon de la Reserva 610, Miraflores 15074, Lima PeruPhone: +51 1 625 4343Website Both Peruvian locals and foreign tourists love the sea-front shopping. 3D cinema, restaurants, discos, and howling at Larcomar. The luxe shopping mall houses 70 shops selling everything from local chocolate and Peruvian art to international brands like Converse and Gap. The stunning ocean views are unexpected, but no less welcome, from a mall. Address: Av. Du 5245, Miraflores 15074, PeruPhone: +51 1 993 012 115Souvenir shoppers, start here. Mercado Indio is one of the largest and most popular craft markets in Lima. Treasures include pre-Columbian-style pottery, woolly alpaca-yarn clothing, and textiles—all from hundreds of vendors and artisans. Pay in soles, dollars or even with a credit card. Haggling is expected. Address: Calle Miguel Dasso 114, San Isidro 15073, Lima PeruPhone: +51 1 421 3725Website The ethos at El Closet de mi Hermana is comfortable and unique women's clothing with elevated style. The mostly neutral color palette and clean silhouettes are a chic contrast to alpaca-themed everything you'll find elsewhere. Accessories and housewares are also available. Kay Pacha/Courtesy of Ayni Address: Jr. Gonzales Prada 335, Oficina 204, Miraflores, Lima PeruPhone: +51 1 305 8234Website For a little touch of sustainable Scandinavian style in the heart of Lima, head to Anyi. The eco- and social-conscious women's clothing store was founded by Danish friends who share a passion for craftsmanship and ethical sourcing. Their sophisticated sweaters can be made to order. Miraflores gets all the ocean cliffside ooohs and ahhs, plus high end shopping, globally celebrated restaurants, and luxe hotels. Barranco is beloved for its nightlife and boho-artistic vibes. But don't sleep on Barrio Chino's charming Chinese architecture and abundance of Chifa (Peruvian-Chinese) restaurants. The Historical Center is worth exploring too, with its cathedral-fronted Plaza de Armas, Moorish balconies, and the historic El Gran Hotel Bolívar. The weather in coastal Lima almost always plays nice—but cloudy days are typical and temperatures err on the cool side thanks to cold water currents in the Pacific Ocean. Remember, summer and winter are opposite of what we experience in the United States. The warm season is generally from December through April, with temps rarely exceeding the mid 80s. Expect cool, humid, and cloudy weather from June to October. Rain is scarce throughout the year, but sea mist (called quara) is typical.
